Are you new to a leadership role, ready for promotion or simply looking for inspiration? This course is designed to help leaders get the results they want easily – to become more effective.

Some say leaders are born, but the evidence is that it's a learned skill – and anyone can lead if they choose to. We use DiSC as a self-discovery tool to help you with that learning process.

This practical course will help you learn how to lead effectively and develop strategies for dealing with everyday events. You'll learn simple processes that are easy to put into practice.

At the end of the course participants will:

- Understand your own strengths
- Understand how to lead effectively
- Understand how to build and motivate your team
- Learn how to get great results

Course Structure

The course is highly interactive with a range of exercises, games, role plays and practice sessions so that participants learn by doing, rather than through formal teaching methods

Pre-Course work

Attendees will complete an online assessment of their personal management style prior to the course.

This includes a pre-course Disc on-line assessment of your management style prior to the course
